DEPARTMENT OF FAMILY PRACTICE
FACULTY OF MEDICINE

Title: Challenges in recruiting and retaining assessors and providers of Medical Assistance in Dying (MAiD)

Investigators: Principal Investigator: Dr. Ellen Wiebe, Clinical Professor, Department of Family Medicine, University of British Columbia (UBC), 1013-750 West Broadway, Vancouver, BC V5Z 1H9, email fmprhemlock.research@ubc.ca phone 604-709-5611, Co-Investigator: Michaela Kelly, MSc, Medical Student UBC, Kate Fitzsimmons, Medical Student UBC

You are being invited to be a part of a research study because you are a MAiD assessor and/or provider or a MAiD coordinator/navigator and a member of the Canadian Association of MAiD Assessors and Providers (CAMAP). CAMAP's mission is to provide support and education for assessors and providers of MAiD and is a resource for policy makers.

We need to know more about the challenges of coping with increased MAiD workloads and the best ways to recruit and retain assessors and providers of MAiD.

Participation is voluntary and will involve a questionnaire that will take about 10 minutes. If you are interested in participating, please complete the questionnaire at the following link.
